

“The annual Space and Settlement conference hosted by Trinity College Dublin is fast establishing itself as a platform for disseminating some of the brightest and most current research into the landscapes and settlements of Ireland in the Middle Ages. This volume draws together eleven of the sharpest papers presented over the first three years of the conference. It will be of real importance, as future medieval archaeologists and historians will benefit from the groundwork carried out here and from the authors’ efforts to highlight promising avenues for future research.”

– from the foreword by
 Prof. Oliver Creighton, U Exeter
